Subject: Bad idea

Currently in Japan but this is a bad idea I would like to see a real settlement rather than a license for Microsoft continue its practices. Words like "allow our distributor more freedom" Microsoft is supposed to allow the distributors FREEDOM. Let's face it when the software is sold it becomes the property of the buyer to use as they see fit not for Microsoft. Microsoft tells them they can and can't do. It goes for the distributor as well. It is just one more show that they are not serious about this "settlement". Be for the consumer it is your legal duty to see that this case gets a real deal rather than giving the gold to Microsoft.
